1.0 EVENT OVERVIEW

On the 8th of July 2026, the DESIRED Project, Nnamdi Azikiwe University Team held a seminar workshop at the Canon Emeritus Professor Benjamin C. Osisioma Management Information System (MIS) Laboratory of the Department of Accountancy for the 200 level and 300 level Accountancy Students respectively. The goal was to prepare them for the next phase of learning in the Work Integrated Learning (WIL) trajectory. The seminar was held in two different sessions; each session distinctly featured the two levels of Students in the Department of Accountancy, Nnamd Azikiwe University, Awka, Anambra State, Nigeria.

The guest lecturer delivering the lecture

The theme of the workshop, "From Classroom to the Industry: Navigating Internship Success" was presented by Dr. Emmanuel U. Okeke, the managing Partner of Emmanuel Uchenna O. & Co. (Chartered Accountants). This theme was considered a cutting edge at this critical point in time, especially as the Students prepare to commence their internship placement by the end of 2025/2026 academic session, after the second semester examinations which will be concluded by the third week of August 2026.

The Guest Speaker, building on his enormous wealth of experience from professional practice and mentorship, exposed the students to the intents and benefits of internship. According to him, Internship is not just a mere requirement for graduation from higher education institution (HEI), but also a well mapped out period of learning, closeness to professional practice and character development. He further enlightened the students going for the Students Industrial Work Experience Scheme (SIWES) on some topical issues that will play critical role for a successful internship placement.

2.0 CORE FOCUS AREAS COVERED

Interview Preparation Tips

a. Intentional research on the firm or Employer –understand the company's background and the nature of their services.
b. Dress professionally – look clean, good, easy to associate with and smart!
c. Arrive early – this indicates that you are disciplined and value your role in the organization.
d. Be confident – Not prideful.

e. Know the basics of Accounting– principle, cycle, double entry, basic tax laws, financial statements et cetera.
f. Be honest – If you do not know the answer to an enquiry, just be honest to say you do not know, and politely request for clarification.
g. Demonstrate a positive attitude – willingness to learn, respectful, adaptable, ready to start any day, persisting verifiable challenges regardless.
h. Prepare for common questions – be ready always.
i. Highlight your selling point (Skills) – commendable proficiency in various Microsoft office packages, possessing verifiable Teamwork capacity, attestable ability to work under pressure, sound written and oral communication, professional membership of ICAN, ANAN, outstanding cumulative grade point average (CGPA) et cetera.
j. Ask thoughtful questions that are beneficial to the organisation – Can I work in different Departments or Units? What is the nature of your work here? Is it possible to seek advice from you any day?

The Guest Speaker stressed that in readiness for internship placement, Students should understand that an interview is not just a test of one's knowledge, but a test of character, attitude, and potentials. He maintained that Employers of labour and business owners are already aware that each and every one of them are still students, hence, their skeptical look out for someone who is teachable, dependable/trust worthy, ethical and eager to learn. Participating Students were however advised to avoid certain mistakes such as;

i. Late arrival to corporate office of the company.
ii. dressing casually
iii. Speaking negatively about your past Employer(s) iv. Using your phone during interview
v. Interrupting the Interviewer
vi. Being dishonest with information on the CV
vii. Involvement in cheating of any type written interview

An overview of attentive students

2.1 KEY EXPECTATIONS (after you have been taken in)

When a Student has secured his or her industrial placement for industrial internship purposes, certain behaviours and character are expected on daily basis during the internship. These include:

a. Being punctual and professional: Students are expected to assume work promptly every day, dress professionally and appropriately, maintain a positive attitude and show respect to everyone in the office
b. Be ready to learn: ask intelligent questions, jot down new work procedures you are being exposed to during assignments and training, and be willing to learn how to operate and apply new accounting softwares and office procedures when opportune.
c. Uphold integrity and confidentiality: Client information must remain confidential. Do not alter or fabricate accounting records. Be honest in all your dealings during the internship.
d. Build robust technical skills: see the internship placement as the opportunity to match your classroom knowledge of accounting with practical exposure to contemporary issues in bookkeeping, financial statements preparation in line with IFRS disclosure requirements. Other areas to key in to are audit investigations and documentation, tax computations and tax returns, bank reconciliation, payroll preparation, use of accounting software (such as sage, quickbooks, tally, or excel)
e. Develop excel skills: Microsoft Excel remains one of the most significant e-tools in Accounting. Students should learn it extensively especially the application of formulas and functions, pivot tables, data analysis, charts, reporting and the linking of sheets
f. Demonstrate initiative: Be open-minded and willing to volunteer to assist where appropriate. You do not need to be directed to execute a responsibility that is steering at your face, needing your timely attention, even if the responsibilities belongs to another. Do not wait to be told to do every little thing in the organization. Look out for opportunities to add value.
g. Improve on communication skills: Learn to listen carefully to instructions, write professional emails, and speak politely and confidently.to everyone
h. Learn to accept feedbacks positively: View corrections as opportunities for improvement. Avoid becoming defensive when mistakes are pointed out.
i. Work effectively in Teams: Cooperate with Colleagues, respect Supervisors and fellow Trainees. Be reliable and dependable.
j. Keep daily proper records in SIWES Logbook: Record daily activities accurately as they unfold. Ensure the Organisation's Supervisors and the appointed Supervisor from the SIWES Unit sign the logbook as required. Finally, reflect on new and existing things you learned and improved on, at the end of each day work.
k. Develop a growth mindset: Your objective for embarking on internship should not be to complete SIWES as an academic requirement for your graduation, but to be equipped extensively to become employable after leaving the higher education institution (HEI). Employers often retain or recommend Interns who have demonstrated outstanding competence, integrity, and enthusiasm. Concluding his remarks, the Guest Speaker reiterated on certain essential skills every Accounting Intern should strive to acquire. These include: proficient operation of Microsoft office Excel (Advanced) package, Accounting software, commendable application of IFRS disclosure requirements during corporate Financial reporting, possessing enhanced auditing exposures and techniques, professional approach to tax compliance, data analysis, business writing, improved problem-solving abilities, result-driven critical thinking and ethical decision-making abilities.

3.0 SPECIAL FEATURES & ENGAGEMENT

Question and Answer: First session

Interactive Question and Answer (Q&A) interactive session between Participating Students and the Guest Speaker. With their interest fully aroused through the various stages of exposure during the workshop, the Students openly engaged the Guest Speaker, raising intelligent questions that border on their career paths.

Questions on digital accounting tools and ethical issues were the loudest. One of such striking questions was "what will I do as an Accounting Intern if a superior Officer is engaging in unethical and fraudulent activity?" The Guest Speaker, in response, maintained that as intending accounting professionals, matters of ethical concerns must be dealt with in line with professional code of ethics and encouraged the Students not to compromise.

4.0 OUTCOME/RECOMMENDATION

i. All Participants were duly enlightened about necessary work ethics and learning attitude to imbibe in their various places of internship placement.
ii. Accountancy Students numbering two hundred and forty one (241) were concisely educated on soft and technical skills needed for work place and common pitfalls to avoid.
iii. Strengthened formal partnership for internship linkages with tech-enabled accounting firms.
iv. Immediate internship placement were secured for some of the best performing first cohort Accountancy Students.

5.0 ATTENDANCE& PARTICIPATION

The two interactive sessions that distinctly covered the 200 level and 300 level Accounting Students, recorded a total of 248 Participants comprising 241 Accounting Students and 7 Accounting Staff/Lecturers in attendance. The massive turnout further reflects the eagerness and readiness of Accounting Students at Nnamdi Azikiwe University for industrial internship placement, which commences immediately after 2025/2026 academic session in August 2026.
